

unicorn® soap box made out of liquid wood, PLASTIC-FREE

The Unicorn® soapbox made out of liquid wood is a true innovation as it is 100% biodegradable and made only from renewable raw materials. The soapbox consists only renewable resources, mainly lignin a class of the most abundant organic compounds in nature. Lignins are one of the most important structural materials in plants and can be found most often in the cell walls. About 50 million tons of lignin are produced as a by-product of the paper industry globally each year and remain mostly unused.

Such as the soapbox, our label also consists of just renewable materials and a biological adhesive is used to secure it.

The Unicorn® soapbox is a safe and environmentally friendly companion for your soaps while traveling or exploring nature. It is available in two sizes as well as colour variants and offers protection for both soaps up to 150g and small travel-sized soaps up to 25g. The latching function of the lid keeps every soap safely packaged

This innovation is Made in Germany - both the raw material and the soapbox itself.
